EH-200 Series Micro-Kjeldahl Extraction Heater

This EH-200 six-position extraction heater is designed for Kjeldahl digestion on a micro scale—accommodating up to six round-bottom flasks between 18 to 50 mL in size. Each mantle has an independent heater with control dial, on/off switch, and indicator light, and operates up to a maximum element temperature of 800 °C.

The lower part of the unit containing the control equipment is safely separated from the upper heating elements by a stainless steel screen and well-ventilated air space. Unit is double fused on the supply line and neutral for extra safety.

Heater includes two support rods that can be mounted on the sides to hold the optional fume collection tube; the tube lets you safely collect and exhaust fumes when not operating the heater under a fume hood.
